

Dan Harris
Partner, Harris Sliwoski

Mr. Dan Harris is the founding member of Harris Sliwoski, an international boutique law firm that focuses on representing American companies overseas, and foreign companies in the United States. Most of his time is spent helping American and European companies navigate Asia or Latin America by working with the international lawyers at his firm in setting up companies overseas (WFOEs, Rep Offices and Joint Ventures), drafting international contracts, protecting IP, and overseeing M&A transactions. He also often works with companies in figuring out and reducing their foreign country legal risks. Dan writes and speaks extensively on international law, with a focus on protecting foreign businesses in their overseas operations. He is also a prolific and widely followed blogger, writing as the co-author of the award-winning China Law Blog. Dan has been interviewed on international law issues by Fortune Magazine, The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, Forbes, CBC, CSNBC, BBC, and CNN, among others, and many of his articles on international law have been published in leading publications, such as the Wall Street Journal, Bloomberg Law Reports, Forbes Magazine, Supply Chain Management Review, and the National Law Journal. Dan has a B.A. from Grinnell College and a J.D. from Indiana University.

Mr. Harris previously testified before the Commission at the May 2023 hearing on “Rule by Law: China’s Increasingly Global Legal Reach,” September 2021 hearing on “U.S.-China Relations in 2021: Emerging Risks,” and January 2015 hearing on “Foreign Investment Climate in China: Resent Challenges and Potential for Reform.”