

Hanna Dohmen
Research Analyst, Center for Security and Emerging Technology, Georgetown University

Hanna Dohmen is a Research Analyst at Georgetown’s Center for Security and Emerging Technology (CSET), where she focuses on U.S. national competitiveness in emerging technologies and U.S.-China technology competition. She is also a Nonresident Fellow at the Atlantic Council’s Global China Hub. She conducts research on U.S. export controls, the semiconductor supply chain, China’s S&T ecosystem, and U.S. innovation policies. Previously, Ms. Dohmen worked for a geopolitical advisory firm advising multinational private sector clients on geopolitical, regulatory, and reputational risks. Her work and commentary have appeared in Foreign Affairs, BBC World News, The Wall Street Journal, Bloomberg, Nikkei Asia, and Associated Press, among other outlets. Ms. Dohmen holds a BS in Regional and Comparative Studies of Europe and Asia from Georgetown University, and she is currently a J.D. candidate at Georgetown University Law Center.

Ms. Dohmen has not previously testified before the Commission.