

Tim Khang
Director of Global Intelligence, Strider Technologies

Tim Khang joined Strider in 2020 and has helped lead the development of several Strider products. As Director of Global Intelligence at Strider, Mr. Khang specializes in developing bespoke analytic products to tackle clients' unique requirements.

Before Strider, Mr. Khang worked as a financial analyst at the U.S. Department of the Treasury where he specialized in global capital flows and the international bond market. He has also worked at the U.S. Trade Representative's interagency trade enforcement office during the Section 301 investigations into the PRC's unfair trade practices.

Mr. Khang spent more than 8 years in China where he worked as a Human Resources consultant and talent recruitment manager for the PRC manufacturing and finance industries. He holds degrees from the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies and the University of California, Los Angeles.

Mr. Khang has not previously testified before the Commission.