

Dr. Guanie Lim

Assistant Professor, National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies

Dr. Guanie Lim is Associate Professor at the National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies (GRIPS), Japan. His main research interests are comparative political economy, value chain analysis, and the Belt and Road Initiative in Southeast Asia. Dr. Lim is also interested in broader development issues within Asia, especially those of China, Vietnam, and Malaysia.

Dr. Lim has published his findings in key academic journals such as World Development, Third World Quarterly, and Journal of Contemporary China. His latest monograph — The Political Economy of Growth in Vietnam: Between States and Markets (published by Routledge) — details the catching-up experience of Vietnam since its 1986 doi moi (renovation) reforms.

Dr. Lim has most recently consulted for the ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office (AMRO), covering financial cooperation dynamics within East Asia. He received a PhD from the National University of Singapore, an MSc from Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, and a BEng (Hons) from the University of Bath, United Kingdom.

Dr. Lim has not previously testified before the Commission.
